

Mayo Clinic Minute

World Cancer Day

Video

Audio

	pens drop on table
	It takes many hands to highlight all the hope you'll find inside the Mayo Clinic Cancer Center.
Title: TONI KAY MANGSKAU CLINICAL TRIALS REFERRAL CO- ORDINATOR Mayo Clinic Cancer Education Pro- gram	The most important thing is that we connect patients with research opportunities and that we encourage people to ask about clinical trials.
	sound of picture being snapped
	Ask about anything. This team wants to share their time and experience.
Title: LONNIE FYNSKOV, R.N. PATIENT EDUCATOR Mayo Clinic Cancer Education Pro- gram	We give them some time to think about their questions and then we help them find their answers.
	There are conversations about healthy choices
	sound of picture being snapped
	and mind-body connections.

Title: JILL DOWDY LIBRARIAN Mayo Clinic Cancer Education Program	We make nutrition suggestions for patients before, during and after treatment. So they can be as strong and healthy as possible.
Title: TAMMY ADAMS, R.N. PATIENT EDUCATOR Mayo Clinic Cancer Education Program	We help you find relaxation and peace during your cancer journey.
	sound of picture being snapped
	And they'll help you "connect to others" on the same journey.
	We have the "Living with cancer" blog and newsletter.
Title: SHERYL NESS, R.N. PROGRAM MANAGER Mayo Clinic Cancer Education Program	So, it's a virtual way to connect to others in this community of cancer survivors. They can talk to each other, they can also talk to us as experts.
	And it's a way to keep connection when they're not here on campus anymore.

	Anywhere in the world and back inside the Mayo Clinic Cancer Center, you're in great hands with this team of educators.
Graphic	For the Mayo Clinic News Network, I'm Jeff Olsen.