

Mayo Clinic Minute

26.2 to Beat Breast Cancer

Video	Audio
Vivien Williams	And they're off.
Vivien VO: marathon video	Thousands of people, many bedazzled in pink, running to raise money for breast cancer.
Clip 1543 at 7:20 Donna Deegan Founder 26.2 with Donna	"I've always been a runner. I love to run."
VO: marathon	The 26.2 with Donna is breast cancer survivor Donna Deegan's way of giving back.
Clip 1543 at 00:43 Donna Deegan	"Have been cancer free since 2007."
Vo: marathon To Viv stand up	Money raised during the marathon goes to breast cancer research and care. Almost 3 million so far has funded genomics research here at Mayo Clinic, where Donna was a patient.
Clip 1543 at 18 Donna Deegan	"Where they could really study the genes that cause breast cancer and see what else they could find out about those genes and try to come up with new therapies."
VO: lab video	Including research on a potential new vaccine for triple negative breast cancer.
Clip1543 at 11:53 Donna Deegan	"It's been a wonderful journey to not only appreciate things in life because of everything that I've been through, but to be able to go back and give back to an organization that saved my life."
Vivien Williams	I'm Vivien Williams, and for more health news, visit the Mayo Clinic News Network.